More than $169,000 invested in local health care

Upgrades and repairs improve service at the Three Hills Health Centre

THREE HILLS — More than $169,000 in repairs and upgrades have been completed in the last year at the Three Hills Health Centre to improve services at the local Alberta Health Services (AHS) facility.

Among the improvements:

- More than $124,000 was spent to replace a water main.
- About $45,000 was spent on chiller repairs that will extend the life of the units and ensure comfortable temperatures for patients and staff.

“These investments are an important part of helping our patients stay well,” says Kerry Bales, Chief Zone Officer of the AHS Central Zone. “It is also vital we keep our health care infrastructure up to date.”

Funding for these projects came from the Government of Alberta’s Infrastructure Maintenance Program (IMP). In recent years, additional IMP funding has been invested in other projects at the Three Hills Health Centre, including a retrofit to the building management system, replacement of the door monitoring and security panel system, and a redesign of the nurse station and conference room.

“No matter where you live in the province, it’s important that your health care needs can be met as close to home as possible,” says Sarah Hoffman, Minister of Health. “These projects help make that a reality, and are part of our commitment to manage and improve health infrastructure and capital across Alberta.”

AHS, in partnership with Alberta Infrastructure and Alberta Health, is building and renewing facilities across the province to provide accessible, sustainable, quality health care to all Albertans. AHS currently has about 270 maintenance projects underway throughout the province.

AHS submits to Alberta Health and Alberta Infrastructure an annual list of IMP priority renovation, repair or upgrade projects for the next three years to ensure the projects meet program criteria. Projects are ranked in priority from those that must be done immediately to ensure safety and health of patients and staff, to non-urgent projects that need to be addressed over time.

Taking into account the diverse needs of Albertans, AHS is strategically investing in the health system to support patients and communities to stay healthy and manage illness effectively.

AHS maintains over 450 facilities throughout the province, including hospitals, clinics, continuing care facilities, mental health facilities and community health sites.
