Message from the Alberta Health Services Board and the President and Chief Executive Officer

Alberta Health Services' (AHS') reputation is shaped by our actions, choices and decisions each day.

Together, we must:

- Work in the best interests of our patients and clients
- Act fairly and objectively
- Recognize and address conflicts of interest
- Think about how our actions may impact our patients, co-workers, clients and community partners
- Exercise our best judgment
- Protect the confidentiality of the information entrusted to us
- Come forward if we see something significant or material that we think is not in the best interests of our patients or our organization
- Have the courage to stand up for what is right

The AHS Code of Conduct (Code) outlines the values, principles and standards of conduct that guide our actions and interactions.

It is at the heart of the AHS bylaws, principles, directives, policies, procedures, protocols, standards, codes of practice and any other applicable guidelines, regulations and directives that set out how we conduct ourselves as we carry out our work on behalf of Albertans.

AHS Board Chair

Executive Officer*

A Guide to the Code of Conduct

At AHS, we work in a complex environment and serve a multicultural population. We often have very different backgrounds, training and education. What we share is a commitment to improve the health and quality of life for our patients, each other and the public. Our ability to provide high quality care has been, and will continue to be possible due to the quality and integrity of the people who are part of AHS. That's why a Code is so important. It can help us to better understand each other and the people we serve and assist us in working together.

Our Code is principles-based. It anchors all of the specific AHS bylaws, policies, procedures, standards, guidelines, regulations and directives that set out the rules by which we govern ourselves (see Appendix A) and the steps we take should we fall short.

Our Code is based on both rights and responsibilities. It protects and guides equally all of those who are part of, or work within, our health system. It recognizes the challenges we face, the high standards expected and needed of us, and the paramount importance of our shared duty to the people we serve.

Regardless of where we are working - in one of the AHS facilities, on the road or at home - our actions should always be guided by the Code. Each of us needs to make sure that we understand the Code and know who we should talk to when we find ourselves in a challenging situation.

Our Vision, Mission and Values

Our Vision

Healthy Albertans.
Healthy Communities.

Together.

Our Mission

To provide a patient-focused, quality health system that is accessible and sustainable for all Albertans.

Our Values

compassion

We show kindness and empathy for all in our care, and for each other.

accountability

We are honest, principled and transparent.

respect

We treat others with respect and dignity.

excellence

We strive to be our best and give our best.

safety

We place safety and quality improvement at the centre of all our decisions.

Together, these five values form the basis of our Foundational Strategies and guide our actions under the Code. (See Appendix B.)

Our Code of Conduct Principles

Principles set out how we live our values. Principles are less specific than policy or rules. They guide us in the grey areas and help us answer the question: What is the right thing to do?

We can't create policies or rules to cover all possible situations. However, we can build a foundation based on trust and respect where our principles guide us and can help us to do the right thing. We must ensure that we do not violate these principles in a material way.

Our five principles are as follows.

Treat people with respect, compassion, dignity and fairness

Treating people with respect, compassion, dignity and fairness includes:

- Showing empathy and understanding
- Being sensitive to diversity and the unique needs of individuals and groups
- Listening to and considering ideas and concerns of others
- Fostering healthy relationships with colleagues and others

Be open, honest and loyal

Being open, honest and loyal is fundamental to fostering an atmosphere of trust where people share and learn from each other and work together to achieve common goals. Being open, honest and loyal includes:

- Communicating in a timely and appropriate manner
- Coming forward if you think you have been treated unfairly, and supporting others to do the same
- Taking responsibility for, correcting and learning from mistakes
- Considering how what we say or do may impact our own reputation or that of AHS
- Building trust and being trustworthy

Act ethically and uphold professional standards

Acting ethically and upholding professional standards includes:

- Always striving to behave in an honourable fashion
- Displaying integrity and ethical behaviour
- Upholding all standards, codes of conduct and codes of ethics that apply to us
- Upholding applicable AHS bylaws, principles, directives, policies, procedures, protocols, standards, codes of practice and any other applicable guidelines, regulations and directives
- Recognizing and addressing real, potential or perceived conflicts of interest

Take responsibility for our own actions and expect the same of others

Taking responsibility for our own actions means being accountable to our patients and clients, AHS as an organization, ourselves and to the public. This includes:

- Doing what we say we are going to do
- Evaluating and improving the quality, safety and effectiveness of our services and the outcomes of our decisions
- Promoting excellence, innovation and continuous improvement
- Recognizing our limitations and seeking help and guidance when needed

Respect confidentiality and privacy

Respecting confidentiality and privacy means we will protect all confidential health and personal information of our patients, co-workers, the public and AHS business information. This includes understanding and complying with the provisions of the Health Information Act and the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, along with their respective regulations and any other applicable privacy legislation.

Respecting confidentiality and privacy also includes:

- Collecting, using, accessing, disclosing and storing the minimum amount of information necessary to do our work
- Protecting patient, client, co-worker and other personal information, as well as AHS business information
- Not engaging in public discussions or comments about confidential information, whether it concerns patients, clients, employees or AHS business

Our Responsibilities

Each one of us is responsible for:

- Ensuring that we act in ways that are in keeping with this Code
- Reading and understanding the Code and staying current with updates
- Understanding, staying current and complying with applicable AHS bylaws, principles, directives, policies, procedures, protocols, standards, codes of practice and any other applicable guidelines, regulations and directives

What to do if you have Questions or Concerns

If you have questions or concerns about the Code or what to do in a particular situation, you should first consider consulting with your colleagues or professional practice leader or speaking to the person or persons involved. If this is inappropriate, or if you are unable to resolve your concern, you have three options:

1. You can speak to your manager (the person you report to, the next highest level of management or the professional practice leader), or your local human resources (HR) advisor;
2. You can speak to the Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer if you are uncomfortable raising your concern with your manager or if it is impractical to do so; or,
3. You can call the External Confidential Reporting and Disclosure Service.

Their roles are as follows:

Your manager:

- Responds to questions and concerns and takes action to resolve them as soon as practical
- Utilizes the appropriate expertise within AHS to help resolve issues (such as HRBP)
- If appropriate, refers the issue to their manager or alternatively to the Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer
- Documents and reports issues and how they were addressed to the Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer

The Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer:

- Provides guidance and direction on the Code
- Assesses, reviews, and may investigate or direct an investigation of questions and concerns
- Has discretion to determine if matters raised warrant an investigation
- Determines whether there has been a breach of the Code of Conduct, Conflict of Interest Bylaw or Safe Disclosure/ Whistleblower Policy
- Advises appropriate decision makers that a breach has occurred in order that appropriate action can be taken
- Takes any other actions that the Chief Ethics and
- Compliance Officer deems appropriate
- Reports to committees of the AHS Board

The Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer is not an appeal body for operational or policy decisions of AHS.

The External Confidential Reporting and Disclosure Service:

- Receives anonymous confidential questions and concerns
- Acts upon questions and concerns in a confidential manner and forwards them to the Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer

The AHS Board has an oversight role and overall responsibility for the Code. As part of its mandate, the committee receives reports from the Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer.

Who is Covered by the Code

The Code applies to everyone who provides care or services or who acts on behalf of AHS. This includes:

- The AHS Board
- All levels of AHS administration and management including the President and Chief Executive Officer and other members of Senior Executive
- Employees of AHS and its subsidiaries including permanent and probationary full time and part time employees, term employees, casual employees, and individuals employed under an individual consulting or service contract
- Physicians, dentists, podiatrists, midwives and other allied health professionals with an AHS appointment and privileges, who provide care or services on behalf of AHS Subsidiaries
- Researchers working with AHS or studying AHS staff or patients
- Students, trainees and educators
- Volunteers
- Contractors

How the Code fits with the AHS Governance Framework

Our Code is part of the AHS governance framework which also includes:

- Bylaws such as Conflict of Interest Bylaw and Medical Staff Bylaws which, where inconsistencies exist, take priority over the Code
- Corporate and clinical governance, corporate and clinical policies such as the Safe Disclosure/Whistleblower Policy
- Procedures that provide the detail needed to meet policy requirements
- Protocols, standards, codes of practice, other applicable guidelines, regulations and directives

Everyone who provides care or services on behalf of AHS must familiarize themselves with the bylaws and policies that apply across all of AHS, as well the procedures, standards, guidelines and directives applicable to their own position or activities. Please see your manager for more information or if you have any questions.

Responsibilities and Consequences

It is important to be aware of your responsibilities under the Code and to ask questions if you are in doubt or want to understand the Code more clearly.

Everyone covered by this Code is expected to abide by it. Breaches of the Code are considered to be a serious matter. If you are found to have contravened the Code, the consequences are as set out in the terms of your employment or other relationship with AHS and may result in discipline up to and including termination of your employment or other relationship with AHS.

Conclusion

In summary, the Code is based on five principles:

- Treat people with respect, compassion, dignity and fairness
- Be open, honest and loyal
- Act ethically and uphold professional standards
- Take responsibility for our own actions and expect the same of others
- Respect confidentiality and privacy

These principles reflect our values, guide our actions and serve as a compass when we have to decide what course to take in a challenging situation. If you have questions or need help or advice, please talk to your manager, professional practice leader, local HRBP contact, or contact the Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer at complianceofficer@albertahealthservices.ca.
