

Working Together

The Medicine SCN strives for a balance between optimizing the merger of former SCNs to address issues that span a broader patient population, while at the same time retaining a specific focus on improving the quality of care and outcomes for the hospital medicine, kidney and respiratory patient populations.

This is achieved through collaboration across the three Sections at the Committee, Working Groups, the Patient & Family Advisor Council, the Scientific Office and leadership levels to identify and implement both intersecting priorities and population specific improvement initiatives and projects.

Potential Cross-Cutting Projects & Initiatives involving 2 or more Sections are being identified by members of our Core Committee.

Current Working Groups:

- Data Working Group launched to enable evidence-informed decision-making by the SCN, its Sections and Working Groups, by identifying analytic needs, facilitating access to data and creating analytic products (analyses, dashboards, reporting, etc.).
- Long-COVID Working Group launched to support the management of patients with Long-COVID by developing strategies and tools to harmonize the provincial approach to clinical services and prospective evaluation, with a focus on specialty care and primary-specialty care integration.
