Writing a grant application can be a daunting and overwhelming process. To help you navigate the ins and outs of grant writing, we've put together a panel of outstanding health researchers to provide practical advice on the process, including:

- Locating and accessing funding opportunities
- Types of research grants
- Determining eligibility to compete for grants
- Navigating the ethics application process
- Writing the background, aims and objectives of the grant
- Peer review process
- Grant administration and budgeting
- Reporting to the granting agency.

There is no cost associated with this event.

This workshop is brought to you by the Surgery Strategic Clinical Network™
