Ownership of MyAHS Connect

The content and design of MyAHS Connect are the property of AHS and its third party licensors, such as Epic. This excludes information entered by you or personal or health information that you may enter into MyAHS Connect.

AHS grants to you a limited license to display, print and use the AHS and third party information and materials accessible in MyAHS Connect solely for your personal, non-commercial use if you ensure that all copyright, trademark and other proprietary notices are displayed on such materials.

Health Information and Proxy Access

MyAHS Connect enables the uploading (the sending of a file from your computer to MyAHS Connect) and viewing of certain types of data through the connection of personal health devices. You may enter, upload, store, and access health information to MyAHS Connect, including copies of documents, records, and images. You are solely responsible for choosing whether or not to enter or to upload any such health information. AHS has no responsibility for information you choose to enter into MyAHS Connect.

You may give access to your health information within MyAHS Connect to another individual. Alternatively, another individual may give you access to their health information within MyAHS Connect. This is called “proxy” access, and is most often used for family members or individuals who provide care to another individual.

In addition to being able to voluntarily give another individual access to your health information, proxy access that grants one individual access over another individual's health information may also be permitted as set out in the Health Information Act (Alberta) or other applicable laws. For example, a parent of a young child may be given proxy access to their child's MyAHS Connect or access may be permitted if someone has a court order appointing them to be the guardian of another individual.

Users with proxy access to another individual's health information in MyAHS Connect are responsible to only access the information relevant and necessary to exercise their authority with respect to the other individual's health care.

If you choose to utilize MyAHS Connect functionality to grant access to other individuals to view your health information, you are expressly providing consent and authorization to AHS to allow those other individuals to access your information within MyAHS Connect. Any sharing of information via MyAHS Connect is done entirely at your own risk. AHS is not responsible or in any way liable for your choices in respect of the same, or for any collection, use, or disclosure of any information shared from MyAHS Connect by those to whom you have granted access, including health services providers.

You agree to notify AHS User Support immediately of any suspicious activity within MyAHS Connect. AHS is not liable for any loss or damage arising from your failure to monitor your MyAHS Connect or your Account.

Disclosure

The Health Information Act (Alberta) permits AHS to disclose your health information under certain circumstances without your consent. AHS expressly agrees not to disclose any of your personal or health information from MyAHS Connect to any third party without your prior written consent or authorization, unless such disclosure is permitted by the Health Information Act (Alberta).

To remove their proxy access go to “Share My Record” before deactivating your account.

Deactivation will also occur when a patient status is changed to “Deceased” and any proxy access given will also expire at that time.

Deactivation may also occur due to misuse of the MyAHS Connect. Misuse is defined by AHS as: communication unrelated to care or using profane language; communication of harm or threats to health system personnel, facilities or others and misuse of portal features to disrupt practice operations.

Other than as required by law or with your consent, AHS will not disclose or provide access to information stored in MyAHS Connect after you deactivate your Account.
