

Newborn Blood Spot Screening Collection Location Codes

Last Updated: February 21, 2025

Introduction

Newborn blood spot screening collection location codes are a 5-6 letter acronym that represents your facility/practice and service area where the newborn blood spot sample collection took place. They are assigned based on a combination of the facility name and the collector's service area, which were developed by the Alberta Newborn Screening Program (ANSP) back in 2013.

- The facility component is 3 to 4 letters representing the name of the facility or practice.
- The service area component is 2 letters representing the newborn blood spot collector's specific service area.

For example, a lab assistant from the Foothills Medical Centre is collecting an infant's newborn blood spots on the post-partum unit. Their newborn blood spot screening collection location code is FMCLI.

- FMC is the facility component for Foothills Medical Centre
- LI is the service area component for lab inpatient services
